ViewSonic Corporation, the number one independent provider of display products in the United States and North America completed the acquisition of Nokia Display Products, a strong player on the European display market. This gives ViewSonic two distinct brands in Europe and makes the company one of the leading providers of display products.

For the past 10 years, the ViewSonic brand has been synonymous with high quality, market-leading products. Nokia is considered one of the leading monitor names in Europe and the two brands therefore complement each other perfectly. ViewSonic firmly believes that the organisation will benefit from Nokia's outstanding product range.

ViewSonic is committed to meeting and exceeding its customers' expectations. Just as important is the ability to deliver new technologies and products to the marketplace faster than the competition. Unlike some of its primary competitors, ViewSonic is exclusively devoted to the display technology business, which enables the company to better focus its resources.
